

any of our stations, would not be able to accomplish the purposes for which it is maintained. It has, indeed, been proposed to augment the force in the Pacific, by the Boston, or some other sloop-of-war; and the opinion is respectfully expressed, that it would be least detrimental to the public service to leave the arrangement of the vessel undisturbed, and authorize another sloop-of-war to be prepared for that service.

Should this opinion be deemed correct, and Congress determine to send a vessel to the mouth of Columbia river, another of the ten sloops-of-war may be launched, and ready for sea, before the end of the session. In that case, an addition to the estimates will be required, sufficient to fit it for sea and support it for the year; say the sum of thirty-seven thousand nine hundred and thirty-five dollars and seventy-five cents.

If Congress differ from the opinion expressed, and resolve that the force now actually on the several stations need not be increased, either the Boston or the Cyane may be engaged on the proposed survey, after they have executed special service on which they have been already ordered. In that case, the Boston may be ready to sail by the first of April, and the Cyane by the first of June, and no addition to the appropriations will be required.

Upon the second point: it is stated that the expenses of a vessel, so employed, may, in some degree, exceed its ordinary expenses while on our usual cruising grounds. It cannot carry provisions and stores for the whole year, and the cost of procuring what is wanted may be greater there than elsewhere. The difference, however, cannot be such as to require an alteration of the estimates, if any of the vessels now in commission be employed. This statement concerns only the ordinary support of the vessel, and does not embrace the purchase of instruments and apparatus, nor the pay and support of scientific men who may be engaged to aid in the survey; the extent of that expense is not understood to be included in the inquiry. It would, probably, require an addition of from eight to ten thousand dollars, to the amount stated in the estimates.

On the third point: the Boston would be able to carry, in her hold, eight or ten guns, with the necessary ammunition, in addition to her stores and armament.

Although not called for by the resolution, the consideration is respectfully suggested, that the Boston will draw from sixteen to seventeen feet of water, and that rivers and inlets, worthy of examination, may be found within the latitudes mentioned, which would not admit a vessel of such a draft; and that, should this prove to be the case, an examination of them can be made only by the boats, the vessel, during the time, lying in the open sea. Such an operation would prove dilatory, expensive, and, in some instances, perhaps, dangerous; while the work itself would not be executed in a satisfactory manner. These evils may be, in a great degree, avoided, by adding to the sloop-of-war a schooner of lighter draft of water. The annual expense of such a schooner, exclusively of the commissioned and warrant officers, is about sixteen thousand five hundred dollars.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

SAMUEL L. SOUTHARD.

The Hon. the SPEAKER of the House of Representatives.
