DOVER (N. H.) PHYSICIANS.

BY JOHN RANDOLPH HAM, M. D., OF DOVER.

The following sketch of the Physicians of Dover, N. H., is designed to embrace the name of every regular physician who has practiced in Dover, whenever existing records have preserved a trace. The names are arranged in the supposed order of settlement, and the date prefixed to each indicates the earliest year in which the physician is known to have been in practice in Dover.

1631. DR. RENALD FERNALD, sent out to New Hampshire by Capt. John Mason, of England, in 1631, was the first physician and surgeon among the New Hampshire settlers. He resided at Portsmouth, N. H., but was only five miles below the settlement at Hilton's (now Dover) Point. He was undoubtedly physician to the Dover settlement 'till his death in 1656.

1684. DR. JOHN BUSS was born in 1640, and was an educated physician. He began the practice of medicine at Wells, Me., in 1672, and, although it does not appear that he was ever ordained, preached to that people, in addition to his medical practice. In 1684 he moved to Dover, and settled in the Oyster River parish; practiced medicine and preached in that parish 'till 1718, when he retired. In the attack upon the Oyster River parish by the Indians, 18 July, 1694, his house, with a valuable library, was destroyed by fire; he was absent at the time, and his wife and children fled to the woods. The parish of Oyster River became the town of Durham in 1732; he died in Durham in 1736.

1717. DR. THOMAS ALDEN was practicing in Dover as early as Dec. 28, 1717, when he witnessed the will of Judge John Tuttle. He was surgeon in 1722 to a company of soldiers that cut a road from Dover to Lake Winnipisaukee; and had land laid out to him, July 4, 1723, by the town of Dover. He was found dead in the highway, at his horse's feet, March 8, 1732, having a deep wound in his head, supposed to have been received, in his fall, from a glass bottle which he held in his right hand; one of his legs was broken, and he was frozen stiff. His widow, Elizabeth, returned an inventory of £170, 4s, 10d.

1718. DR. JONATHAN CROSBEE was practicing in Dover as early as 22 Oct., 1718, at which date he bought of James and Mary Burnham 18 acres of land in the Oyster River parish. He sold his Oyster River property, 18 Sept., 1722, to Joseph and Samuel Smith, and moved to Dover Neck, where he bought of Joshua Cromwell 12 acres of land, 21 Oct., 1723. He had wife, Hannah, and the dates of birth of their children begin in 1719 on the town records; with his second wife, Mary, he sold his dwelling-house and land, on Dover Neck, to Nicholas Hartford, 16 July, 1731, and probably left Dover.

1720. DR. SAMUEL MERROW, son of Henry Merrow, was born in Reading, Mass., 9 Oct., 1670 (o. s.). He began to practice medicine in Dover, in about 1720, and was in practice there as late as 1733. He lived in the Oyster River parish, now Durham; moved to Rochester, N. H., and died there about 1740.

1729. DR. THOMAS MILLER was practicing in Dover as early as 1729; the dates of baptism of his children, on the church records, beginning in that year. He was appointed in 1745, by the House and Council, Surgeon of the N. H. regiment, under Col. Moore, in the Louisburg expedition. He lived in the parish of Somersworth, which parish became the town of Somersworth in 1754, and died in Somersworth; the administration of his estate was granted to John Gage, of Dover, June 30, 1762. His estate was appraised at £1126, 6s, 11d.

1735. DR. CHENEY SMITH was practicing in Dover as early as 1735. He married Eunice, daughter of Capt. Thomas Baker, of Dover, and lived on the corner of Pleasant and Silver streets. He was Assistant Surgeon of Col. Nathaniel Meserve's N. H. regiment in 1757, in the Crown Point expedition. He died about 1759, leaving five daughters, and one son (Cheney) who died a soldier in the Revolution. Tradition says Dr. Smith prescribed for himself a little grog several times a day, so often, indeed, that the doses often unfitted him for prescribing for others.

1735. DR. MOSES CARR was born 25 Nov. 1715 (o. s.), in Newbury, Mass.; began the practice of medicine in 1735 in Dover; married Mary, daughter of Paul Gerrish, of Dover, and lived in the parish of Somersworth. In addition to his medical practice, he was Judge of the Court of Common Pleas from 1776 to 1784. He practiced, with reputation, 'till within a few years of his death, which occurred 30 March, 1800.

1759. DR. MOSES HOWE was in practice in Dover as early as 1759, the dates of baptism of his children beginning in that year. He was elected Moderator of a town-meeting in 1766. He died in Dover, "of bleeding," Nov. 2, 1776.

1762. DR. EBENEZER NOYES was born in 1739, in Newbury, Mass., and was graduated in 1759 from Nassau Hall, Princeton, N. J.; studied medicine, and began to practice in Dover, about 1762, and practiced until his death, which occurred Aug. 3, 1767. His tombstone, which is standing near Col. John Waldron's burial-ground, above Garrison Hill, Dover, gives the date of death as above, while Coffin's History of Newbury says he died the 11th of August.

1767. DR. EZRA GREEN was born June 17, 1746 (o. s.), in Malden, Mass.; was graduated from Harvard College in 1765; studied medicine with Dr. Sprague, of Malden, Mass.; settled in Dover as a physician in 1767. In June, 1775, on the Sunday after the battle of Bunker Hill, he joined the N. H. regiment under Col. Reed, on Winter Hill in Charlestown, as Surgeon; and served 'till the winter of 1776, when he left the army and returned to Dover. He was commissioned, in Oct., 1777, as Surgeon of the ship-of-war Ranger, under the command of Capt. John Paul Jones, and on Nov. 1, sailed for France, and was in the engagement with the Drake. The Ranger returned to Portsmouth, N. H., in Oct., 1778, and Dr. Green left her and returned to Dover. He married, 13 Dec., 1778, Susanna, daughter of Reuben Hayes, of Dover; sailed again as Surgeon of the Ranger in March, 1779, and left her again in July, 1779. He sailed in 1780, as Surgeon of the Alexander, and remained in her 'till the autumn of 1781, when his revolutionary service ended. At the close of the war, he relinquished his medical practice to his friend and successor, Dr. Jacob Kittredge, to whom he gave his books, medicines and surgical instruments, and then commenced a mercantile business in Dover. He was the first Postmaster of Dover, and he held the office several years; was chosen Deacon of First Church, Dover, in 1790, and served 'till 1829; was a member of the State Convention, in June, 1788, which adopted the Constitution of the United States; and he died in Dover, 25 July, 1847, aged 101 years and 27 days.

1768. DR SAMUEL WIGGLESWORTH, son of Rev. Samuel Wigglesworth, of Ipswich, Mass., was born 25 Aug., 1734; was graduated from Harvard College in 1752; was teacher of the Ipswich Grammar School from May 6, 1755, to May 2, 1759; studied medicine and began practice in Ipswich, Mass.; and was in the practice of medicine in Dover about 1768. He lived on Central street, Dover, in the building next south of the present Belknap church, which house he, with his brother John, a trader in Dover, sold in 1771 to John Wentworth, Jr. He was Surgeon of Col. John Waldron's regiment in the winter of 1775-6; was teaching the Pine Hill school, Dover, in the summer of 1776, in addition to his medical practice; and was Surgeon of Col. Joshua Wigate's regiment in 1776-7. He married, 9 Sept., 1779, Mary, daughter of George Waldron, of Dover, and niece of Capt. Thomas Westbrook Waldron, and next lived on the spot where the present Episcopal church now stands, on Central street, Dover. He left Dover as early as 1792, and settled in Lee, N. H., where he died about 1800.

1782. DR. JACOB KITTREDGE was born in Andover, Mass., 15 March, 1761; was a student at Phillips Andover Academy in 1778; was probably in practice in Dover as early as 1782, since Walter Cooper Green, in his sketch of the life of his father, Dr. Ezra Green, of Dover, says when his father ended his revolutionary service he relinquished his medical business in Dover to his friend and successor, Dr. Jacob Kittredge. Dr. Kittredge became a Fellow of the N. H. Medical Society in 1792. He lived on the corner of Central and Kirkland streets, Dover, in a house which had been kept as a tavern by Abraham Hanson in the Revolution, and which is still in good preservation. He died in Dover, 15 July, 1807.

1795. DR. — CARLTON was practicing in Dover as early as 1795, and was elected, in that year, Moderator at a town-meeting. His name does not appear on the tax list of Dover in 1793, nor in 1797; his residence in Dover could not have been more than four years.

1802. DR. JABEZ DOW, son of Nathan Dow, of Kensington, N. H., was born 24 Jan., 1776; was educated under Rev. Mr.

Shaw, of Kensington; entered Dr. Jacob Kittredge's office, in Dover, as a medical student in 1793; began the practice of medicine, in Kensington, in 1796; married Hannah Waite, of Malden, Mass.; and moved to Dover in May, 1802, where he practiced 'till his death, on 9 Jan., 1839. He was one of the founders of the Strafford District Medical Society in 1808; became a Fellow of the N. H. Medical Society in 1816; and was the best known surgeon in Dover and surrounding towns for more than thirty years. He lived on Silver street, in a house kept as a tavern by Thomas Footman prior to 1800, and in which Henry Dow, his son, now lives.

1803. DR. JACOB MAINE, son of Josiah, and grandson of Rev. Amos Main, the first minister of Rochester, N. H., was born in Rochester; was graduated from Harvard College in 1800; studied medicine with Dr. Ammi R. Cutter, of Portsmouth, N. H.; married Sarah Ann, daughter of his preceptor; and began the practice of medicine in Dover, in 1803. In addition to his medical practice, he kept an apothecary store on Main street. He died in Dover, of consumption, between 15 July and 30 Nov., 1807.

1808. DR. JOSIAH LANE, son of Joshua Lane, of Stratham, N. H., was born May 21, 1778; was practicing in Dover as early as 1808; was twice married, his last wife being Sarah Pearson. He remained in Dover only two or three years, and then went to Gilmanston, N. H. He subsequently practiced in New York; was practicing in 1840, in Ohio; and died in 1860, in Pennsylvania.

1808. DR. JONATHAN B. GREELEY, son of Jonathan Greeley, of East Kingston, N. H., was born there in 1785, his mother being Mary, daughter of Governor Josiah Bartlett. He came to Dover as early as 1808, and practiced 'till 1815, when he returned to East Kingston. He married (1st) Susan Richardson, of Durham, N. H., July 3, 1810, and after his return to East Kingston, he married (2d) Hannah Stevens, of that place. He was a member of Strafford District Medical Society; was a man of fine talents, and was skillful in his profession, but ruined himself by intemperance; and died 11 Feb., 1819, leaving a widow only 19 years of age. His widow, Hannah, completed her studies at Bradford (Mass.) Academy, and married (2d) Theodore Noyes, of East Kingston; she became the mother of Hon. Edward F. Noyes, ex-Governor of Ohio, and present United States Minister to France.

1812. DR. DAVID PLUMMER advertises, in 1812, to the citizens of Dover, that he has taken an office for the practice of physic and surgery.

1814. DR. — TAYLOR was in practice in Dover as early as 1814; he was a well educated physician, and, in addition to his medical practice, taught Latin and Greek to young men fitting for college.

1815. DR. JONATHAN FLAGG was a resident physician in Dover as early as 1815; was a well read physician, but was not popular, on account of his strict temperance principles. He left Dover, in 1817, and settled in Boston, Mass., where he gave up the practice of medicine and became a leading dentist.

1815. DR. JONATHAN WOODBURY, son of Dr. Robert Woodbury, of Barrington, N. H., was born 13 June, 1791; he was educated at Gilmanton and Exeter, N. H., Academies; read medicine with his father in 1812, and with Dr. Jabez Dow, of Dover, in 1813 and 1814, and began the practice of medicine, in 1815, in partnership with Dr. Dow, in Dover. He left Dover, in 1817, and settled in practice in Union, N. Y., where he remained 'till his death, May, 1835. He was a member of Strafford District Medical Society.

1816. JACOB KITTREDGE, M. D., son of Dr. Jacob Kittredge, of Dover, was born 1 Oct., 1794; read medicine with Dr. Jabez Dow, of Dover; was graduated from Harvard Medical College in 1816, and began the practice of medicine in the same year, in Dover. He was a Fellow of the N. H. Medical Society, a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and of the Strafford District Medical Society; and was a member of the N. H. Legislature in 1830 and 1831. He built the house next to his father's, on Central street, and resided in it—the one now occupied by Mrs. Wm. F. Estes. He was in practice in Dover until within a few days of his death, which occurred from inflammation of the bowels, Dec. 18, 1831. He visited his patients at Piscataqua Bridge on the Friday preceding his death, and for twenty-one years had not been confined to his house a single day by sickness. No man in Dover could have been taken away whose loss would have been more severely felt. His funeral was from the Unitarian church, and Rev. Dr. S. K. Lothrop pronounced the eulogy, a large concourse of people being present.

1818. DR. ASA PERKINS, son of William Perkins, of Dover, was born 5 April, 1793; read medicine with Dr. Dow, of Dover; began practice in 1816, in Rochester, N. H.; returned to Dover, in 1818, and practiced 'till 1830, when he was obliged, from ill health, to relinquish his practice. He was a Fellow of the N. H. Medical Society, and a member of Strafford District Medical Society. He continued to reside in Dover 'till his death, which occurred from consumption, May 3, 1850.

1821. GEORGE WASHINGTON KITTREDGE, M. D., son of Dr. Jacob Kittredge, of Dover, was born 15 Feb., 1800; was graduated from Harvard Medical College, in 1821, and began the practice of medicine in the same year, in Dover; was member of Massachusetts Medical Society, Fellow of N. H. Medical Society, and member of Strafford District Medical Society. He lived in the old tavern of 1776, in which his father lived and died, and which is yet standing, on the corner of Central and Kirkland streets. He died, in Dover, 4 July, 1836, from a pulmonary disease induced by the inhalation of chlorine while fumigating himself after visiting patients in a small-pox epidemic.

1824. FREEDOM SEAVER, M. D., of Vermont, was graduated from Harvard Medical College in 1822; was in practice in Dover as early as 1824, and as late as 1825. He was a member of Strafford District Medical Society.

1825. DR. SAMUEL WAITE DOW, son of Dr. Jabez Dow, of Dover, was born 26 Sept., 1802; read medicine with his father; attended medical lectures at Harvard College; began practice in Dover, in 1825; was a Fellow of the N. H. Medical Society, and member of Strafford District Medical Society; was obliged, in 1836, from ill health, to give up practice; and died 15 May, 1837, in the McLean Insane Asylum, in Somerville, Mass.

1825. ARTHUR LIVERMORE PORTER, M. D., was born in 1794, in Portsmouth, N. H.; was graduated in 1818, from Dartmouth Medical College; was Professor of Chemistry and Pharmacy in the University of Vermont; left Burlington, and assisted John Williams, agent of Dover Manufacturing Company, in the summer of 1825, in starting the Bleachery and Printworks in Dover; from which the first shipment of calicoes was made to Boston market, in February, 1826. He visited Europe, in April, 1826, in the interests and employ of the Dover Manufacturing Company, and returned in Aug., 1827; re-organized the Printworks on his return, and was superintendent 'till Nov., 1829, when, being superseded, he gave his entire attention to the practice of medicine in Dover. He left Dover, in 1836, and settled in Detroit, Michigan, where he practiced 'till his death, which occurred from erysipelas, in 1845.

1831. NATHANIEL LOW, M. D., son of Dr. Nathaniel Low, of South Berwick, Me., was born 4 July, 1792; was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1809, and from Dartmouth Medical College in 1813; began the practice of medicine in 1813, in South Berwick, Me.; was a member of the Maine Legislature in 1825; moved to Portland, Me., in 1825, and was editor of a political paper for two or three years; was Secretary of the Maine Senate in 1827; was Postmaster of Portland; moved to Dover in 1831, and, with the exception of short absences, has practiced continuously in Dover since that date. He was a member of the N. H. Legislature in 1846 and 1847; was Postmaster of Dover in 1863-65; and is a Fellow of the N. H. Medical Society, and member of Strafford District Medical Society.

1832. DR. SOLON STARK, son of Dr. James Stark, and grandson of Archibald Stark, was born in Hopkinton, N. H.; practiced medicine in Dover, in 1832; went to St. Louis, Missouri, in 1833, and practiced 'till his death, in 1877. His grandfather, Archibald, was a brother of General John Stark of the Revolution.

1832. JOSEPH HAVEN SMITH, M. D., son of John Smith, was born in Rochester, N. H., 17 Nov., 1805; was graduated from Bowdoin Medical College in 1829; settled in practice in 1829, in Rochester, where he remained three years; moved to Dover, in 1832, where he practiced until 1867, when he moved to Lowell, Mass., where he is yet in practice. He married (1st) Meribah Hanson, and (2d) Mrs. — Wiggin, of Dover. While in Dover, in addition to his medical practice, he was editor of the Dover Gazette for several years. He was an active member of the Dover School Committee; was Inspector of Drugs in the Boston Custom House, under President Pierce, residing in Dover; was Representative in the N. H. Legislature in 1837, and member of the State Senate in 1844-45; is a Fellow of the N. H. Medical Society, and was its President in 1849. Since residing in Lowell, he has edited a paper in addition to his medical business.

1833. DR. JOSEPH HAMMONS was born in 1787, and was in practice in Farmington, N. H., as early as 1817, and while in practice in Farmington, he was twice elected Member of Congress, his terms of service beginning 4 March, 1829, and ending 4 March, 1833. He moved to Dover in 1833, and practiced 'till his death, which occurred 28 March, 1836. He was Postmaster of Dover in 1833; was a Fellow of the N. H. Medical Society, and a member of the Strafford District Medical Society.
