ARMY PEARL HARBOR BOARD EXHIBIT NO. 64

JOHN WEINER, Investigator for House Military Affairs Committee.

It was expected that at the February 15 hearings of the Committee there would be testimony indicating that during the Spring of 1942 in Hawaii Colonel

Wyman and three other Army officers participated in an evening of drinking in a hotel barroom. Wyman became quite intoxicated and stated:

"There are probably a good many things which I have done during my life that are not exactly right, but there is one thing I have not done and that is to sell out my country the way that s. o. b. Rohl did to his German friends. I should never have trusted him and what I should do now is take this service revolver, go out and shoot him and then blow my own brains out."

It is said that Weiner has an affidavit from a Capt. Guiter who was attached to the General Staff at Washington in July 1943 embodying Wyman's remarks.

The day after the carousal Capt. Guiter and the other officers reported the incident to the G-2 office at Honolulu. Nothing was heard for about six weeks when the officers were called in and statements taken. Nothing further was heard of it.
